

on the skyline cable. After a huge tree is cut and trimmed, this cable is fastened to it. The donkey engine then drags the big log from the forest along the skyline. Logs are dragged to clearings in the forest where they are stored in yards. From the yards they are carried by train or truck to a waterway nearby. Sometimes the storage yards can be located